The Parable of the Three Builders

Two things that I have been pondering lately are parables and attitude. The reason parables have been on my mind is obvious. I am preaching 13 sermons based on the Jesus parables as they appear in the Gospels of Matthew and Luke. Maybe my preoccupation with parables is also a sign of advancing age. They say that the older you get the more things remind you of other things. One begins to answer every question with a story.

I have also been pondering attitude, considering how important our attitude is to every facet of our life. Do we have an attitude of gratitude or an attitude of entitlement? Do we view ourselves as victors or victims? It makes all the difference in the world. And so let me combine my ponderings by telling you a parable about attitude. It's called the parable of the three builders.

Many centuries ago three men were working at a construction site. A visitor stopped and asked the first builder, "What are you doing". The builder answered "I'm putting one stone on top of another.. I am a poor laborer and the work is thankless". The visitor walked a ways and saw a second builder doing the same work. The visitor asked, "What are you doing?" This second man took pride in his accomplishment and said, "I am building a wall." and with arms outstretched he added, "Doesn't it look great?" The visitor walked further down the wall and observed a third builder cheerfully singing to himself. He asked, "What are you doing?" And he answered, "I am building a cathedral to the glory of God!"

All three builders were doing the same thing and all three answered honestly. So then, what's the difference? The difference is attitude. What is your attitude toward the daily grind of life? Are you grudgingly stacking stones? Maybe you take pride in building your own wall? Or perhaps you have discovered one of the great secrets of the Christian life. With a humble heart, you are building your life as a monument to the glory of God.

Kim's Corner - Reunion of Friends

I recently spent a weekend in Oregon catching up with lives of my old high-school friends. One friend flew in from Korea, another from Canada, another from LA, and I came from San Francisco. Two of them I had not seen in over 40 years. After I came to America, I was too busy building my career, raising kids, and moving around the country. I lost touch with these dear friends. The internet is a wonderful thing. With diligence and determination my friend from Korea first found my sister, then found me.

Their wrinkles and grey hair shocked me at first, but within a few minutes, my eyes got adjusted. I only saw faces of my 15-year-old friends. We talked, laughed, and ate Korean food for three days and nights. My mother's grave is near Salem Oregon, so all of us went to her grave. We sat in a circle and talked about our old days. I learned a lot about my mother and the influence that she had on my friends. My mother was the first Christian lady they ever encountered. They equated her kindness with Christianity. All of my friends became Christians. I am not sure how much my mother influenced their choices, but the way they talked about her, she seemed to be their first and most significant Christian example.

As adults we play an important role in the lives our children's friends. Without realizing it, we may be the only Christ they ever see. They may decide to follow Jesus because of the kindness that we show to them. We exchanged many gifts during this reunion. The greatest gift that I received was the testimony of friends about the Christian witness that my mother showed to them through her life.
